Burns cash shared out

Robert Mitchell

Ravenscraig Burns Club shared the success – and proceeds – of ‘one of its best ever’ Burns Suppers to boost the works of the national bard among school children across Scotland.

The committee decided once again to share the proceeds equally between the Robert Burns World Federation and the Lanarkshire Association of Burns Clubs, with each organisation receiving £900.

Club treasurer Tommy Brennan said: “This was another excellent response, and I can’t thank our members, supporters and sponsors enough for the way they respond year after year.

“We only hope that this gesture will help keep alive the Burns’ tradition and help ensure our children and grand-children can enjoy the nights that we are enjoying – and we certainly enjoy our Burns’ Suppers at the Ravenscraig Club.”

Ayrshire-based Jim Thomson, President of the World Federation of Burns’ Clubs, said: “My response was one of astonishment. Once again the people of Lanarkshire have been extremely generous to the Federation.

“The money will be used to help fund our annual Scottish schools’ competition which now includes an art competition. We also now run a competition for students from Russia and Ukraine for essays in English about Robert Burns.”

Patricia Leslie, Immediate Past President of the Lanarkshire Association of Burns’ Clubs, said: “It’s been a privilege to come to Motherwell and be handed such a valuable cheque. This will go towards the running costs of this year’s Lanarkshire competition which will be held in Clyde Valley High School later this month.

“There is a growing interest in young people involved with the Burns’ competitions, both in primary and in secondary schools, and this is a feature we are keen to cultivate.”
