This event will take place in the warmth and comfort of Alloway Parish Church from 2.00 till 3.30 on the afternoon of Sunday 27th January 2019. This year's title, taken from one of his great love songs, reflects the enduring popularity of Burns' songs and poems. In light of this, much of the concert will be a tribute to the genius of our National Bard but there will also be other songs and poems. Contributions to the programme will come from members of the club both young and "slightly more mature" as well as the talented Alloway Burns Club Choir and the ever-popular local folk group Luath. The concert is free but there will be an opportunity for those present to make a donation, if they wish, to support the Burns Supper in Ayr Town Hall which Alloway Burns Club organises every year for representative young people from all the Primary Schools in South Ayrshire.
